The Voice of the Highlands since 1884

Flying fish: Ministry of Natural Resources helicopter pilot Doug Holtby checks a map as he navigates toward one of the 70 lakes across the Haliburton Highlands region that have been stocked with lake trout over the past two years. Holtby dropped 104,000 brook, rainbow, splake and lake trout from the helicopter's six specially designed tanks last week. Story and photos on page 10.

Election offers 'clear choice': MPP

PETER DOWNS
 Staff Reporter

The decision for voters on June 3 will be clear cut — more prosperity or more debt, riding

MPP Chris Hodgson said on Day Two of his re-election campaign.

Voters can either help push Ontario's economic rebound even further ahead by supporting the Tories or step back in time to the days of "taxing and spending" by casting ballots for the other two parties, Hodgson maintained last week.

"There's a clear choice for people in Victoria-Haliburton-Brock to make."

And after four years of steady economic growth, Hodgson said it would be "a shame" to return to a government that saddles the province with debt and drags down the economy at the same time.

The budget the Tories presented last week — which reads like an election platform document — will help keep Ontario on the right track, he said.

The PCs promise to cut income taxes by a further 20 per cent and lower education property taxes by the same amount over five years — if re-elected. The first 10 per cent cut would come this year.

At the same time, the Tories have promised to bump up health-care spending by 20 per

9-1-1 mix up raises safety fears

PETER DOWNS

An unknown number of residents in the Highlands are being charged by Bell Canada for 9-1-1 service, even though the emergency response number doesn't work in the county.

The service fee may be small, but some fear consequences of the mistake could be disastrous.

They're worried callers in emergency situations could waste vital time trying to reach 9-1-1 before they figure out the number doesn't work and call local emergency services directly.

"It's a public safety issue because people will assume they're getting 9-1-1 service when they're not," said Ernie Hills, who discovered the 32-cent charge on his phone bill more than a month ago.

As clerk of Snowdon, Hills has also received calls from

Young artists envision green Ontario

THE VISIONS OF TWO of the Highlands' youngest citizens may be included in a book called My Ontario. Posters by Ainsley Munro, a Grade 2 student at Stuart Baker School, and Nicholas Botticella, a Grade 1 student at Archie Stouffer School, are two of the five district finalists in the Ontario 2000 Project. Students from across the province were asked to share, in pictures or with words, what they thought Ontario would look like in the year 2020. Based on enrollment, Trillium Lakelands was asked to submit five entries, and Ainsley's and Nicholas' posters are two of them. In 2020, Ainsley sees herself

"cleaning up the environment. When I have cleaned all of Ontario, I will paint pictures of nature and wildlife (such) as wolves, foxes, deer, bears and birds. I want to do it because I hope the kids will understand the meaning of why God made it for us and to take care of it." Under Nicholas's picture, he writes "By the year 2020, in Ontario there will be a lot more trees. I will help this happen by planting a tree each year in honour of my birthday." The provincial winners will likely be announced in the fall. Congratulations to these two artistic visionaries!

Congratulations also to Highlands teachers Ann Varty, Robert Penfold, Tom Dawson and Cathy Boake, who recently received their 25-year service pin from the Trillium Lakelands District School Board.

Bring your rakes, your enthusiasm for the outdoors and of course, your bug jacket to the Trillium Trail Festival on Sat., May 15. In the Highlands, people will be celebrating the many ways people can get out and enjoy Ontario's natural resources at the Moose Woods Trail Centre (just off Hwy 118 on the road to Eagle Lake.) Sponsored by the Haliburton Highlands Trails and Tours Network, it's not just a way to help out on the trails - you can also enjoy being on them. Bring your bicycle or join Network volunteers for an interpretive hike. Everyone is welcome. For more information, call Jan Warfield at 286-2410.

The 21st annual Buckhorn Spring Festival of Crafts is May 22 to 24, with 125 craftspeople gathering at the community centre.

Lindsay's museum has an interesting line-up of exhibitions over the next few months. From now until June 25, it's Building a Dinosaur, from July 5 to August 27 it's "Egypt: The Gift of the Nile"; from Sept. 8 to Oct. 27 learn about Native Ranching and Rodeo Life; and indulge your Obsession of Collecting from Nov. 8 to Dec. 15. The museum is on Kent Street near the Hwy 35 turn off. For more information, call 705-324-6756.

The Woodlands of southern Ontario face tremendous pressures from urban development and logging. Concerned people from across southern Ontario are convening to talk about woodland conservation at a June 9 and 10 conference at Trent University. "Anyone who cares about southern Ontario woodlands will find this gathering invaluable," says John Riley of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, one of the conference's sponsors. Items to be addressed include woodland ecology, conservation, planning and management. Forty-six leading woodland experts will share their knowledge and insights. There will also be a Biodiversity Trade Fair at 5 p.m. on the 9th. For more information call conference co-ordinator Andrea Kettle, 1-800-440-2366 ext 231 or from Toronto, 416-444-8419.

The Women's Health Centre in Peterborough is looking for new volunteer members for its community advisory board, especially women from Haliburton. For more information or to receive an information package, please call Jane Bremner at 1-800-419-3111.

Correction: A story in last week's issue of The Echo mistakenly reported the Algonquin Snowtrails Alliance received $50,000 in funding from the Haliburton County Development Corporation. The grant was actually provided by Human Resources Development Canada. The story also reported the alliance plans to publish 100,000 copies of each issue of its quarterly newsletter. The alliance plans to print 100,000 copies of the newsletter annually. Our apologies for the errors.

Municipalities will likely absorb any savings from county

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Although the county has been able to reduce its tax levy by 10 percent, property owners should not expect to see their taxes decrease by the same amount, the county's top politician cautions.

Not only do county costs account for roughly 10 to 15 percent of a total tax bill, but most municipalities are facing new costs which more than equal the savings.

"The county has this new money from the province, but all the municipalities are hurting," Warden Elva Bates told The Echo.

Few municipalities will be able to hold the line on their budgets this year, she said. "I don't know any municipality which can guarantee no tax increases."

Reasons include:

- the downloading of services such as policing
- a shrinking tax base in part due to revenues lost through changes to the way the managed forest tax rebate is paid, as well as successful assessment appeals

• and increased costs, such as waste management.

"Take my municipality, Glamorgan, as an example," she says. "We have horrendous waste management costs and this (levy break from the county) comes in handy for us..."

"If the upper tier (county) can help lower tier (municipalities), why wouldn't we do that? Let's give something back to municipalities."

In other words, any savings in taxes from the county will probably be absorbed by the municipalities.

Bates says she really appreciates the thought and energy county councillors put into this year's budget. Knowing that special provincial grant monies won't be available next year, they kept costs down while re-investing savings in reserve funds.

It should be noted that the $100,000 budgeted for the Chamber of Commerce mentioned in last week's story is for two years, not one.

Demeaning behaviour has no place at HHSS, students told

DIANA ZLOMISLIC
Staff Reporter

In response to about five harassment incidents at HHSS over the last two months, the school's administration held its first-ever assembly on the issue last Tuesday.

"We have to clear the air," said Vice Principal Irv Sternberg, referring to the demeaning way some students have been treating others lately. "It's in our face."

Having to endure harassment at school can be very stressful—causing sleepless nights for some and leading others to change schools or drop out entirely.

While the police did not have to be called to intervene in any of the cases reported at HHSS, OPP Const. Laura Ostler spoke to the student audience about the conditions and implications of assault, threatening and criminal harassment.

Ostler reminded students that assault includes anything that the victim considers an unwanted act or even a gesture, such as holding up a fist to someone in a threatening manner.

In situations where someone experiences a series of confrontations, Ostler encouraged students to document the incidents. She referred to a recently laid charge of criminal harassment where family members were followed by an individual over a two-year period. Because the family kept track of these happenings, they were able to lay charges.

YWCA's anti-violence project leader, Ann Curry-Stevens was also on hand, wanting students to empathize with the victims.

"Think about it," Curry said, asking the students to put themselves in the position of the person being harassed. "You might be scared — you might wonder what you've done to deserve this kind of treatment."

Curry reminded the students of the effect harassment has on some. She referred to the mass murder at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado last month — executed by two students who were treated as outcasts.

"They experienced boiling amounts of frustration and rage they didn't know how to control."

Curry and Const. Ostler encouraged both the perpetrators and victims of harassment to seek support from community outlets.

STUART BAKER OPEN HOUSE

Hwy 35 may get four lanes from 115 to Lindsay

The province will undertake a planning study later this year for four-laning Highway 35.

The preliminary design study by the Ministry of Transportation is expected to start this fall. It will determine the impacts of four-laning the existing Highway 35 corridor from Highway 115 to Lindsay.

"The province recognizes the importance of Highway 35 as a transportation corridor to Lindsay, particularly with the new correctional facility currently under construction,"

MPP Chris Hodgson says. "A safe, reliable and accessible road system is essential for local residents, businesses and visitors on their way to cottage country."

"This work will assist the ministry in developing design parameters and identifying anticipated timeframes for widening the highway, including proposed locations of any required interchanges," Transportation Minister Tony Clement said. "The development of a preliminary design will be a key building block for future detailed environmental studies."

This summer, the Ministry will begin studies for preliminary design and environmental assessment for three passing lanes on the Highway 35 corridor. Timing of construction will be determined by the planning work, and will depend on property requirements, environmental approval and availability of funding.

"The passing lanes will provide relief on Highway 35 while we work toward a longer-term solution," said Clement.

Tax cuts fueled booming economy, says Hodgson cent over the next five years to $22.7-billion. Education spending will also be increased by $200-million in the coming year to a total of $13.3-billion.

Hodgson credited the government's 30 per cent cut to income taxes as one of the main reasons the province's economy has improved. More money in people's pockets has led to more spending, creating more than 500,000 new jobs, he said.

"Four years ago, the Liberals said if we cut taxes, we'd lose $5-billion in revenue. But in fact with the economy growing our revenue has gone up by $6-billion. That's an $11-billion miscalculation on their part."

Ontario's economy grew by 4.2 per cent last year, faster than any other province in Canada and other major industrial countries around the world.

“We’ve always said we want to have the best standard of living in the world. I think Ontario’s potential is unlimited.”

CHRIS HODGSON

The strong economy has helped put the government ahead of schedule to eliminate the deficit by the fiscal year of 2000-2001, Hodgson said.

In the 1998-1999 fiscal year, the Tories say they reduced the deficit to $3.2-billion, putting them $4.8-billion ahead of the target. This fiscal year the government has promised to cut the deficit to $2.1-billion, $500-million lower than its original forecast.

Hodgson criticized Liberal leader Dalton McGuinty's proposal to increase education property tax by between five and 10 per cent.

"It's disastrous for our area. That's why school boards four years ago were coming to me saying we can't keep the pace."

In Haliburton County, where the property tax base is relatively high for its small size, the former board's government funding was cut year after year.

The funding system allowed individual school boards to spend more per pupil on their students, based on their property assessments.

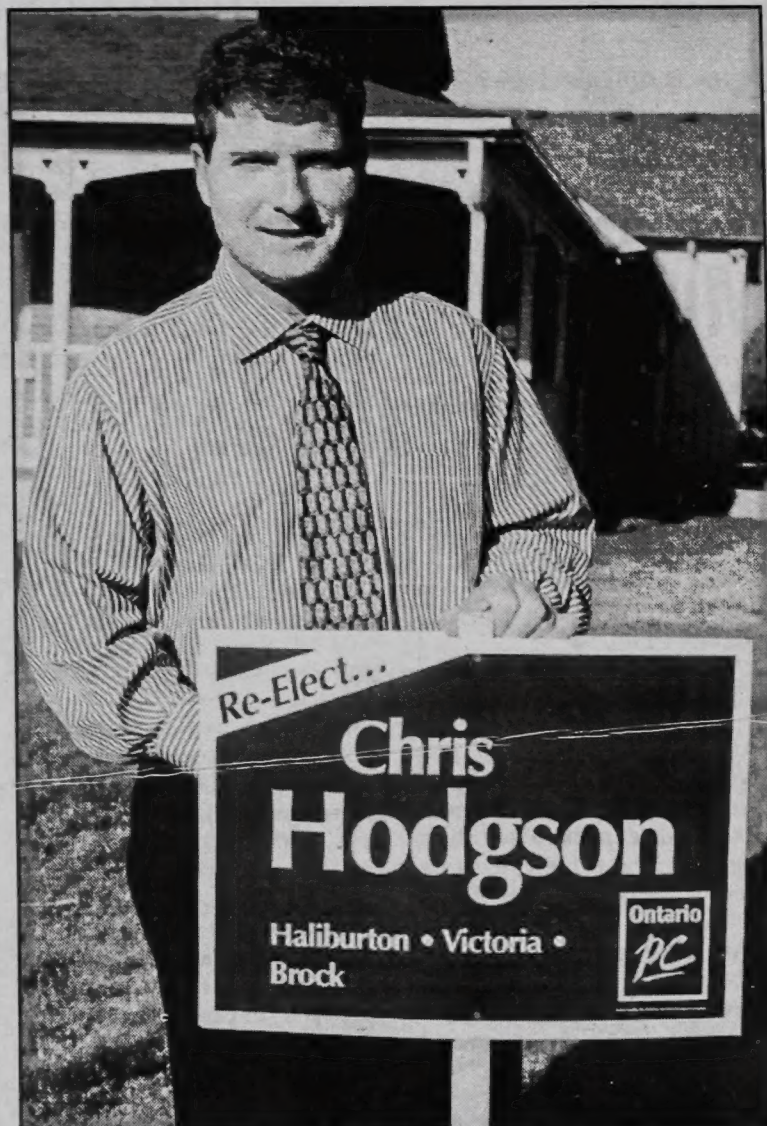

But when the province took over education funding, it was able to equalize per-pupil spending at school boards across the province, noted Hodgson.

"For the first time you see new school buildings going in our county and new text books, and it's not tied to property (taxes). I don't know how our area could've afforded that, if it was on property taxes."

The Tories' reign since 1995 has often been turbulent as the government brought in radical reforms in key areas, such as health-care and education.

Hodgson acknowledged the government made enemies along the way both for the changes themselves and the government's handling of them in some cases.

"Nobody's perfect. We always said this is the way we want to go. We've said we want to have the best standard of living in the world. I think Ontario's potential is unlimited."

ON THE HUSTINGS:

It didn't take long after last Wednesday's election call for riding incumbent Chris Hodgson to get out on the campaign trail.

Hodgson's rise to the top ranks of the Tory party has been very fast. After his re-election in 1995, Harris appointed him to a dual portfolio as Minister of Natural Resources and Minister of Northern Development and Mines.

In a cabinet shuffle two years ago, Hodgson was moved to one of the most powerful positions at Queen's Park as chair of the management board. He also serves as Deputy House Leader and held onto his position Minister of Northern Development and Mines.

A Haliburton native, Hodgson began his political career in 1993 as reeve of Dysart and warden of the county.

Hodgson and his wife, Marie, have four children.

Hodgson said he's eager to continue working for residents of the county and the riding. "This election is basically about building on the gains we've seen in Haliburton County over the past four years."

Liberal's McCrae returns to vie for seat in third attempt

PETER DOWNS

Staff Reporter

After her crushing defeat in the last provincial election, Liberal candidate Sharon McCrae vowed she'd be back again to challenge Chris Hodgson, the riding's incumbent MPP.

Nearly four years later, and before last week's June 3 election call, the Ops resident wasn't so sure she'd follow through on her threat.

But she finally decided she couldn't let the Tories get away without answering for the "chaos" they've created in Ontario's education and health-care systems.

Two weeks ago, McCrae let her name stand again to represent the Liberal Party in the riding and was acclaimed to the position.

"It was a tough decision. It's a big commitment," said the former elementary school teacher and long-time municipal politician in Victoria County. "I listened and I watched, and just came to the decision I couldn't not bring the voice of the Liberal Party to this election."

This will be McCrae's third attempt to win a seat at Queen's Park.

In the riding's 1994 by-election, McCrae lost to Hodgson in a narrow upset after leading in the polls until the final days of the election.

In 1995, Hodgson's victory was far more decisive. He garnered nearly four times more votes than McCrae, the closest finisher. Hodgson won every poll in the riding, capturing nearly 70 per cent of the ballots.

This time around, McCrae said she hopes voters carefully consider the parties' policies, rather than the lure of further tax reductions the Tories cast in last week's budget.

"I want to make sure people are going to the polls for the right reasons not because they think they're going to get a tax cut."

She maintained the Mike Harris PCs have chopped taxes at the expense of vital programs while accruing huge debt.

"If we have such a strong econo-

COULDN'T RESIST:

Sharon McCrae says deciding to run in her third provincial election was tough, but she couldn't watch let the Tories get away without answering for the "chaos" they've created in the province's education and health systems.

my, we should be putting it towards debt, not tax cuts that don't benefit a large portion of our riding's residents."

McCrae accused the Tories of damaging the province's health-care system over the past four years through funding cuts and "mismanagement."

She acknowledged Haliburton County will benefit from new long-term care beds approved by the government, but questioned whether the Tories will provide enough funding to run the facilities properly. "If we don't have the operating dollars to support that, it's going to be unfortunate for the people who have become used to the services."

McCrae said her main priority is to see more jobs created in the riding, especially higher-paying ones.

The region needs to boost its main industry — tourism — at the same time as it diversifies its job base. "Tourism is not enough," she maintained.

McCrae, a teacher from 1968 to 1980, began her 16-year career as a municipal politician in 1978 as a councillor in Ops. She served as the municipality's deputy-reeve for three years before spending six years as its reeve from 1988 to 1994. She also served nine years on Victoria County council, including two consecutive one-year terms as the county's Warden in 1992 and 1993.

Since the last provincial election, McCrae has been doing volunteer work for several community agencies and also at on the Victoria-Haliburton Provincial Liberal Association.

McCrae has a husband, Jim, and a teenaged daughter, Heather. The family has a cottage in the Highlands on Paudash Lake.

Over the coming weeks, McCrae said her campaign schedule will bring her to Haliburton County on many occasions.

The NDP also has a candidate running for election in the Victoria-Haliburton-Brock riding. Rick Denyer, profiled in The Echo two weeks ago, is the candidate.

9-1-1 billing error even confuses Bell has also received calls from other residents in the township wondering whether the 9-1-1 charge on their phone bills means they can call the number in emergencies.

The problem appears mainly to affect residents whose phone numbers start with 488, living in Snowdon. Some in Lutterworth are also covered under the 488 exchange.

Both municipalities border Victoria County, which implemented 9-1-1 in all of its townships in November.

The Victoria County township of Galway-Cavendish-Harvey, neighbouring Snowdon and Lutterworth, shares the same telephone exchange, but receives 9-1-1.

A Bell spokesperson said the problem appears to stem from a billing error because of the shared 488 exchange number.

However, at least one other Haliburton County resident whose phone number starts with 457 also had the 9-1-1 service fee tacked onto his phone bill.

Harvey Clarke was puzzled to see the new charge on his bill after he returned to his Donald home from a winter-long stay in Florida a few weeks ago.

When he'd left four months earlier the emergency-response number didn't even exist in Haliburton County. Had the county somehow managed to get 9-1-1 up and running while he was away?

"I was confused at first. I called to make sure we still didn't have it," said Clarke.

It wasn't so much the 32-cent payment he was worried about — it was the potential for danger the mishap could create.

Clarke notified Bell of the problem and the company took the charge off his bill and said it would refund his money.

Ernie Hills said he had a very difficult time getting through to anyone at Bell who could answer why he was being charged for 9-1-1 when he wasn't receiving the service.

But after he passed the information about the problem MP John O'Reilly's office, Hills said Bell quickly called him and sent him a letter, explaining that the charge would be removed from his bill and he'd receive a refund.

Two Bell customer service agents who spoke to The Echo were very confused about the issue and gave mixed messages about the 9-1-1 charge.

One of the agents said people in Haliburton County are already being billed for 9-1-1 because Bell is working on bringing the service to the county.

The other one blamed a billing mistake.

"If someone somewhere in Haliburton County is being billed for 9-1-1 then they should notify us because that's wrong," said the agent, who would identify herself only as Stacey.

Haliburton County council has debated implementing 9-1-1 in the Highlands for many years, but has been stalled by the great expense of numbering all properties across the county.

Haliburton County is so far behind other areas in offering a 9-1-1 emergency call service, that it may actually find itself ahead.

The county has been slow to implement the simple dialing service because of the huge costs of numbering all properties in the Highlands. Some estimates are as high as $1-million.

While numbering properties is something the county will eventually have to tackle, a local cottager who specializes in information services says there is a less expensive alternative to use in the meantime.

Steve Foster, a Loon Lake cottager who sits on the county's information committee, suggests that the county investigate the use of geographic co-ordinates to map properties.

Not only is this a simple and accurate system, but it's also the system used by the services who are being called upon to help in times of emergency.

Both the ambulance and the OPP's computers use geographic co-ordinates when dispatching personnel to a call, Foster said.

Therefore, by linking people's phone numbers to their co-ordinates, the county will simply be saving the computers the need to translate the addresses into co-ordinates.

Another advantage is that a geographic co-ordinate does not rely on municipal borders; "it's a precise place on the surface of the earth," Foster said. That means in the short-term, municipalities would not have to worry about changing the names of roads if two municipalities in the county have the same road names. (To implement 9-1-1, Bell insists that no two roads share the same name in order to avoid confusion for the dispatcher.)

"You'll still have to move into civic addressing, but we're giving you some breathing space," he told local reeves at Wednesday's county council meeting.

Family Services of Haliburton County has applied for funding to hire young people to log the co-ordinates of permanent residents. If funding is available in the future, then co-ordinates for seasonal properties could be recorded.

As well, a partnership could be formed with the high school to have its GIS (Geographic Information Systems) students help with the project as part of their studies.

GIS opens up a new world of information retrieval. For instance, Foster said, if there's an emergency such as a devastating ice storm, people can go into the computer, call up a "smart map" and determine if someone trapped in their house requires dialysis or needs oxygen.

Council did not make a formal decision about Foster's presentation.

Funding helps hospice enhance volunteer visiting program

SIRCH's hospice program has received $17,000 to enhance its volunteer visiting program.

The money will help provide caregiver supports and volunteer hospice visiting to people facing life threatening illnesses and to their families and caregivers.

"Providing greater access to services at home is part of the government's plan to expand services that meet the needs of Ontario's growing population of seniors and people with physical disabilities," MPP Chris Hodgson said when making the announcement.

For the third straight year, a team from Haliburton's high school has reached the podium at a provincial competition testing students' knowledge of Ontario's environment.

The five Grade 12 students — Jennifer Ferguson, Ainsley Hoare, Adrian Rawlings, Jason Scott and Eileen Shim — took home a bronze medal from last week's Provincial Envirothon, where they met Ontario's top envirothoners at the Leslie M. Frost Centre.

The students' qualified for the prestigious event the previous week with a bronze-medal win at the Central Ontario Regional Envirothon, also at the Frost Centre.

The team surpassed their own expectations by even making it to the provincial level since this was its first "full-blown" year in competition, noted coach Derek Little.

At the regional Envirothon, students were tested in five key areas — forestry, wildlife, soils, aquatics and wildfire, the event's featured environmental issue.

The provincial competition was much tougher, requiring students to draw on their overall scientific knowledge to give more well-rounded answers.

A second team from HHSS — John Craig, Graeme Fawcett, Ainsley Heyes, Shannon Maguire and Jason Meyers — finished ninth at the regional Envirothon.

The winning team from last week's provincial competition will represent Ontario at a five-day International Envirothon in California this August.

HHSS has performed well at the provincial event in the past, winning a silver medal last year and a bronze the previous year.

Ontario Envirothon is a provincial education program coordinated by Ontario Forestry Association, in partnership with the Ministry of Natural Resources.

The regional competition was made possible through sponsorship from the MNR, the Ministry of Education and its Natural Bridges Program, seven stewardship councils, as well as many local businesses and associations.

A battle of wills

DO YOU VOTE FOR THE CANDIDATE who best serves your needs even if you don't like his or her party and what it represents? Or do you vote strictly for the party you'd most like to see in power?

On June 3, answering that question will be especially easy for people who like both the candidate and the party, but it will pose a real conundrum for others who might like the candidate but hate the party.

On one side of the equation is the fact that as the MPP for Victoria-Haliburton for the past five years, Chris Hodgson has done an outstanding job in taking care of his constituents. Of course, it has helped that his party is in power, and he has one of the most powerful jobs in the party, but it's not simply a case of pouring money into the riding in order to be popular.

Cynics will say he's buying votes by announcing grant monies for hospitals or fisheries or building projects. The

editorial

projects that are being funded, however, are worthy ones and merit alone makes them eligible for government support. The timing of some recent grant announcements, so neatly in tandem with the election call, is surely more than simply fortuitous, but that doesn't mean the money is any less real or needed.

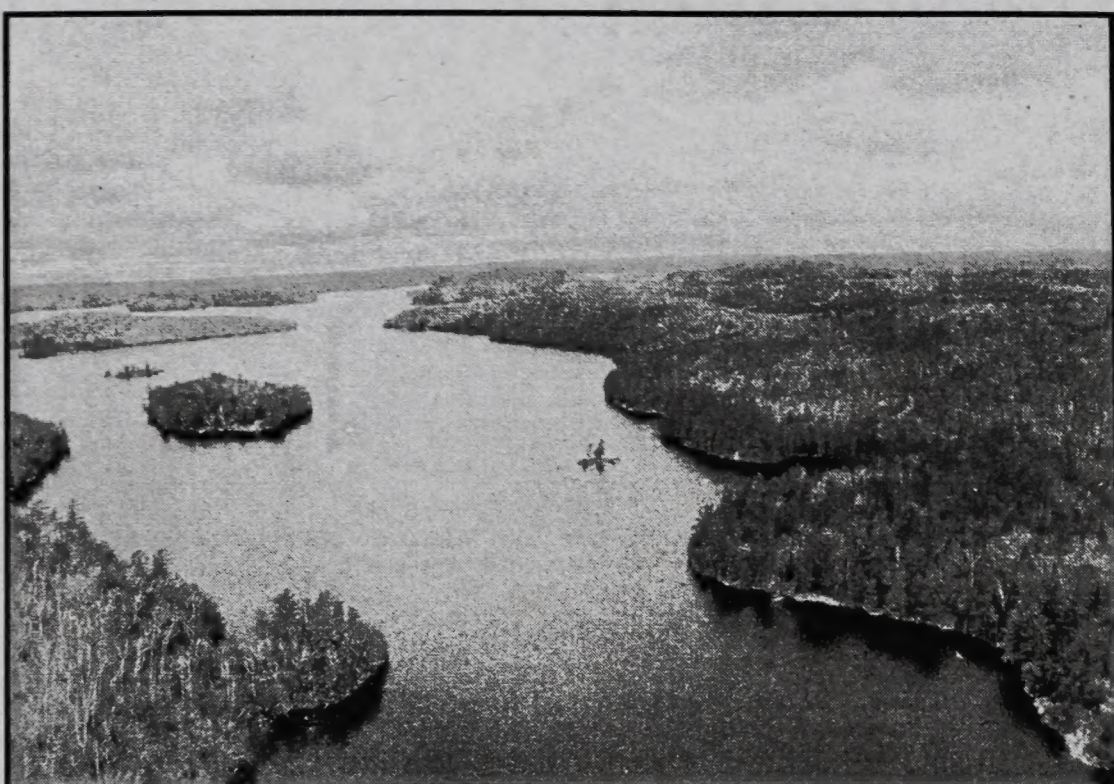

People familiar with the grant application process also know that it's often Hodgson's personal attention to a file that has secured such successful outcomes. He makes sure the right people know about the application and its importance to the people in his riding. He's aware of various funding opportunities and makes sure the people making the application know about them, too. He works hard at his job, and it's this hard work which is often an integral part of the eventual outcome.

You don't have to be an official organization to get Hodgson's support, though. His office staff and local constituency representative are very helpful, not to mention efficient. If you have a problem, you let them know and either the information will be provided right away or they'll try to rectify the problem.

Remember back a few years ago, when the personally popular Dennis Drainville was our NDP representative? He said his staff was too busy to answer the phone, so when you called the constituency office, you always got an answering machine which promised to have someone get back to you as soon as possible. If the staff was too busy to even answer the phone in the first place, how could they ever address the reason why you were calling?

Hodgson has learned from the past successes and failures of local politicians, no matter what party they were associated with. Both Tory Bill Scott and Liberal John Eakins stressed that their constituents came first, because they were the only ones who could vote - or not vote - for you during elections. Scott and Eakins also cared deeply about the riding and its people. Hodgson is an adherent of that tradition.

Today, the problem some voters in Victoria-Haliburton-Brock face is that they like Hodgson but they are angry or disagree with his party, the Progressive Conservatives. Do they vote for the competing parties, who have very little presence in the Highlands, and know little about the area? For some, deeply angry at the Mike Harris government, the answer will be a resounding yes. For the others, this won't be an easy month for answering questions.

Hunting group's remarks insulting to women, threatening to others

To The Editor:

In last week's Echo, Doug MacNab of the Canadian Outdoor Heritage Alliance said about anti-hunters, "We are their sworn enemies", "We want to put them up against the wall and kick the stuffing out of them", and they are "a bunch of little old ladies from the city," that are mostly "urban women over 50".

What kind of bigoted crap is that? How can your paper print that? If he was talking about Jews, disabled people, blacks or other social group you wouldn't even think of printing it. That is a direct threat to anyone who is anti-hunting and is insulting to all women, especially the mature. Well, last time I checked it was a free country, even Haliburton. How do I have to fear for my life and my wife's when we visit here because a bunch of crazy guys with guns hate us because we don't like their 'hobby'?

To each his own I say. I don't like killing animals myself. If you must do it at least obey the laws and kill humanely. But leave your dogs at home and hunt like a man not a crazed pack animal, keep the hunting season the length it is now or LESS because the rest of us aren't safe to go outside for over a month while hunters roam the hills shooting off their weapons. Lock up your guns when seasons done and quit threatening people.

T. Miller,
Coboconk

A Taste of Waste

A huge machine they always rattle
Not the sound of grazing cattle.
Into the woods they make their way
It soon looks like a battle fray.
They have a blade that can lift high
The only purpose is to open the shy.
Push over trees 25 years old,
Left in the mud there to mold.
Our most valuable species are being destroyed
With very few men thus employed.
A series of pictures tell the tale
As these machines rush over hill and dale.
I am sure we will rue the day
That these giants once held sway.
Please smooth over the gouges and the ruts
No pushovers, just make more cuts.
A generation is watching all of this
Not a legacy of future bliss.
Let's be better keepers of the trees
Hear the leaves singing in the breeze.
If making money is the only aim
Then all our forests are fair game.
Remember every time a tree is cut down
Our world becomes a bit more brown.

Mother O'Mine

I KNOW THAT MOTHER'S DAY (the Official Day) will have passed by the time you will be reading this but I am writing this on that day and so I wanted to pass on a few thoughts I have on the subject.

To mark the day this year, we got together with my mother-in-law and my cousin, two of the most wonderful mothers I know. We enjoyed a meal, conversation and laughs and, all in all, it was a lovely time.

Mother's Day hasn't come easy in the last few years since my own mother died. If you haven't actually experienced the loss of your mother, it is hard to explain; in fact I don't think I'll even try. Suffice it to say that it is something I don't think you ever get over and I have finally given up trying.

My mom was wonderful and I miss her more than I can say, but this year, I decided that rather than missing her physical presence, I would look back on all she left me and, in so-doing, made it possible for me to celebrate Mother's Day.

I looked back on all my mother gave me over the years and I came up with a few life rules that I really couldn't live without. These are things that I personally have found beneficial.

Everyone's mother is different and I would go so far as to say mine was quite so. At any rate, she left me with a few guides to help me through life's trials:

- don't pick your nose in traffic
- it isn't how you look but how you feel
- if you aren't the nicest one at the party, come home
- if you are tired, for heaven's sake, go to bed
- to heck with poverty, we're eating meat tonight
- yes, childbirth hurts

Those were just a few bullet points that really don't need any elaborating. Other quips of knowledge she imparted, sort of, were:

- the facts of life, providing there were no difficult questions
- how to sing without ever carrying a tune
- how to have a serious conversation without ever addressing the topic

- the joy of control top panty hose

Even though she isn't here anymore, I think I am finally learning the best lesson she could have ever given me. She taught me to be a good mother, in my own way. She showed me how to pick through all of the life's lesson and use what works best for me and my family.

My mom loved to laugh and I think that is the most important thing she taught me. I could sit for hours listening to her stories of growing up with nine brothers and sister in the Depression, during the war and after. They weren't easy times but she never failed to make them sound like fun (told you she was different).

She certainly had her share of what I would call bad luck, but she just called life. She wasn't always a ray of sunshine, don't get me wrong. She could lose her temper and load on the guilt better than most Jewish grandmothers. But in the end, she always loved us and always let us know. She never said I told you so when I finally realized that I would never marry my first fiancé, she never got really furious when I came home with a failing mark in math, she never said how disappointed she was in me when I did something really stupid, and believe me she had many opportunities. She didn't have to - I knew. And I know now that is what kept me trying harder.

I guess what my mother left me with is a sense of myself, something I am just starting to figure out. It is the age old story that you never really learn the lesson until well after it has been taught. All those lectures, chats, speeches, looks, sighs and yes, hugs, are finally starting to sink in.

Even though she isn't here anymore, I think I am finally learning the best lesson she could have ever given me. She taught me to be a good mother, in my own way. She showed me how to pick through all of the life's lesson and use what works best for me and my family. I make mistakes, sure, but I think by having seen her go through much of the same things, I can take heart that it will all hopefully work out in the wash (whites and colours separate of course!).

I think Abraham Lincoln summed it up well when he said, "All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my mother". Happy Mother's Day, Lorraine.

Children's rights carry responsibilities

HOW FAR WE HAVE travelled over the centuries from "Children are to be seen and not heard," to "Kids will be kids" as an excuse for behaviour that would be inexcusable for adults. Looking at the changing role of children in society over this long period might lead some to suggest that we have moved from one extreme to the other.

In previous centuries there seems to have developed a gradual growing awareness that children were little human beings in their own right. Historical documents, novels, and even paintings document the position of children in society and the gradual shift in adult attitudes.

In paintings from the sixteen hundreds on children were pictured as little adults. Often we find the renditions somewhat grotesque. It was long believed that artists could not catch the look of a real child on canvas, but now it is assumed that children were portrayed in that manner because adults wished to see them as merely little adults.

Records abound to testify to the horrors of children of the working classes having to work long, tedious, tortuous hours. But gradually there evolved the first tentative child labour laws for children of the working classes.

Children of the upper classes had been equally relegated to the role of miniature adults though not usually to the detriment of their physical health (their mental health was another matter.)

The twentieth century, a century of unimaginable change in so many aspects of our lives, likewise has seen children emerge from obscurity into the spotlight front and centre. Western society has gone from children having no rights and many obligations to the reverse.

Their antics, their needs, their wants fill the daily television fare. Far from being controlled by adults, from reflecting adult perceptions they have become a power in themselves. Satisfying the seemingly ever increasing "needs" of children apparently has become a major focus of the adult world.

When one steps back and looks at the juvenile phenomenon that increasingly drives our society incredulity is the main response.

Otherwise sane, thinking adults seem unable to find the means to somehow control this force.

perspectives

Where is the middle ground? Did we adults pass it one day somewhere in the past half century?

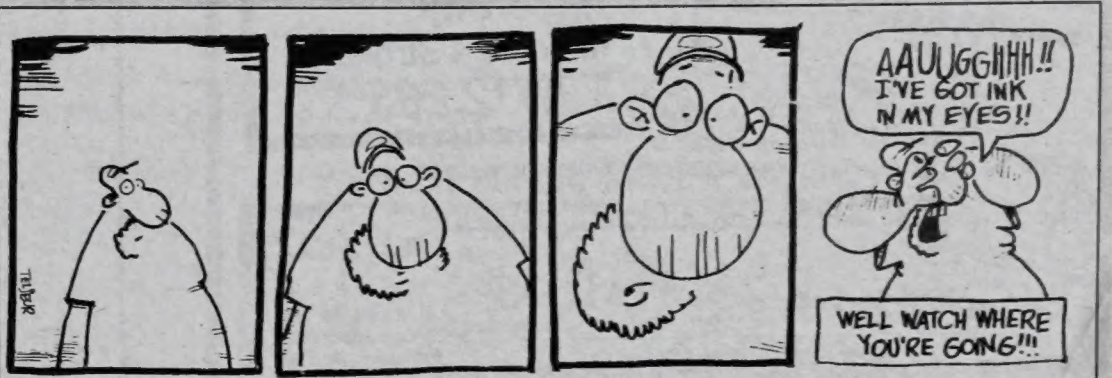

Since somehow we have managed to bestow so many adult freedoms on the young does it not behoove us likewise to impose the obligations, regulations, and responsibilities that are essential in a balanced society.

The paralysis that infects our society when it comes to teenage shenanigans was evident in our Village of Haliburton last summer. Main street merchants who attempted to beautify the areas in front of their stores found these continuously demolished, sometimes on purpose, sometimes from careless skateboarders. What was shocking was the fact that it continued and the merchants felt helpless.

One voice of sanity has finally emerged - that of Reeve Murray Fearey. He has publicly stated that such wanton vandalism will not go unpunished this year.

When we shrug off insolence, rudeness, and disrespect of the young are we not in fact being unfair to them? Instead of teaching them the rules of social behaviour and seriously enforcing these from their earliest interaction with the outside world we let them "be children" and those who have uncurbed lawless tendencies end up being severely punished by "the state." A sad commentary on the world that we have all shaped for them.

MNR goes fly fishing:

■ Ministry uses helicopter to stock 70 area trout lakes

DIANA ZLOMISLIC

Staff Reporter

Hovering about eight feet over the water, Ministry of Natural Resources pilot Doug Holtby looks between his legs at a round mirror attached to the underside of his helicopter.

He's checking to make sure all of the brook trout that had been stored in a tank below him had emptied into the lake.

Once the trout are safely released, Holtby swoops back to the marina for another load.

Holtby dropped 104,000 brook, rainbow, splake and lake trout last week into 70 lakes across the Haliburton area as part of the "Put Grow Take" initiative organized by the MNR each spring.

"We're providing a fishing opportunity for the anglers," said Dana Kinsman, MNR's area biologist. "We're providing them with a variety of fish that aren't here naturally, taking pressure off of the native fisheries."

While some of the fish are rare to these parts, this replenishing process certainly is not. According to MNR records, the stocking process in Haliburton dates to the early 1900s.

The difference between now and then is that today the MNR is much more careful in matching fish to bodies of water. Before, as Kinsman said, "everything and its uncle used to be thrown in at one time." Finding a suitable water temperature and oxygen level for the trout type is crucial to its growth.

And growth is the government initiative's only objective on this project.

Under adequate conditions, the fish Holtby drops are expected to get bigger and eventually be caught by happy anglers. None of these fish are expected to reproduce because the habitat is not suited for spawning, Kinsman said.

Holtby's helicopter carries six tanks which were designed by MNR air engineer Larry D'Andrea and himself.

First the tanks are filled at a marina via a plastic tube that pumps the fish from steel reservoirs in a truck, to the tanks in the chopper.

The truck carries the day's supply of fish to be stocked. This year, splake, brook and lake trout were driven in from a North Bay hatchery. The rainbow fish were raised at the Haliburton Highlands' hatchery.

LOADING UP: North Bay hatchery's Ron Wardell scoops lake trout into a tank aboard his truck. From here, the fish get pumped into the helicopter's tanks about 10 feet away. After 31 years at the Ministry of Natural Resources with their hatchery system, Wardell will be retiring at the end of this year. BELOW: Ross Wray, of the MNR, looks on while Wardell transports trout.

Flying as close over the water as possible, the trout are released by a pull mechanism located on a board to the pilot's left. Each tank door is activated by its own rope cord release and each has a control knob to adjust oxygen supply.

Years ago, the trout were dropped, not so gently, from a plane a couple hundred feet above the water's surface.

While most of the lakes stocked will be available to the public immediately, some will only be accessible during the winter by snowmobile. Kinsman says that this stocking occurs in consideration of ice fishermen who are willing to go out of their way to catch a good one.

Revenue from fishing and hunting licenses, the management board and Ontario government fund this annual program.

Moose tag draw deadline looms

The Ministry of Natural Resources reminds hunters that the deadline for applying to this year's adult moose validation tag draw is May 17 at 5 p.m.

Applications received after the draw deadline will not be entered into the draw.

Hunters may apply to the draw as individuals or as part of a group. Hunters wishing to apply as a group must obtain a special Group Application Envelope, available from MNR District/Area offices or from most hunting licence issuers.

To enter the moose tag draw, Ontario hunters must have a valid resident moose licence and they must submit the paper application, which comes with the licence, to the draw by the deadline.

Ontario hunters may purchase a resident moose licence from hunting licence issuers or from some MNR District/Area offices.

Focus on positive accomplishments

Make today the day you start to focus on yourself. Focus on the positive aspects of your life as well as those aspects you would like to change. Make a commitment to yourself. You're worth it!

Psychologists have known for years that in order to change negative thoughts and behavior you must engage in positive self talk.

Be proud of your accomplishments and learn from your failures, there is always something to learn.

Give yourself self-praise I don't mean develop and inflated ego; but believe in yourself and in whatever it is you want to accomplish in life. If you do not cheer for yourself, who will?

Do the best you can each day and at the end of it tell yourself you did great and believe it.

Today write down some things about yourself that make you happy and proud and some things that you would like to change. Look at the things you would like to change and in point form write out how you are going to start changing them 1 step at a time. If you do things in steps you will accomplish each step and will eventually reach your goal.

Be good to yourself, love yourself and take care of yourself. As they say if you don't take care of you, who will? Good Luck!

SKATEBOARD PARK ON ITS WAY:

Thanks in part to a donation from the Anglican Church's Faithworks, a new skateboard park will be built in Haliburton. Last week, Christopher Greaves, Anglican priest at St. George's, left, presented a cheque for $500 to Greg Shantz, Family Services Youth Worker, and skateboard enthusiasts Jamie Luck, 16, and Diego Rico, 15.

Skaters will soon have a place to call their own in Haliburton

DIANA ZLOMISLIC

Staff Reporter

After 13 months of planning and co-operation with the municipality, skateboarders in Haliburton village will finally have a haven of their own.

Last Thursday, Dysart et al council designated a 30' by 90' lot between the Haliburton curling club and fire-hall as the place where skaters will be able to hone their ollie or slider maneuvers in peace.

A $500 donation from Faithworks, a fundraising campaign that operates from St. George's Anglican church, to Family Services will help the skaters build the cement forms they need to practice on.

The church's donation came after Faithworks received a letter of request from Lucas Merriam and Brian Paul.

The two local skateboarders took it upon themselves to represent the group's cause in gathering financial support.

Christopher Greaves, St. George's parish priest, commended the teens for showing initiative in creating something that will be enjoyed in the community for many years ahead.

The skateboarders have also garnered the support of a local builder.

John Beachli offered the teens his help in constructing forms that skaters will perform tricks off of.

Beachli has already created a 300 pound "fun box" for the teens. It's a 15 inch high cement block with metal edging for the skaters to practice their skills on. The box is temporarily staying beside Haliburton Ready Mix until the group finds resources to help them move it to its new location.

Don't take a fake: Storeowners told how they can identify counterfeit bills

DIANA ZLOMISLIC

Staff Reporter

Could you recognize phoney money if you saw it?

That's a question 40 Highlands retailers can now comfortably say "yes" to after attending last Thursday's seminar on counterfeit currency, hosted by the Stanhope/Carnarvon Police Support Association.

Especially during the summer, when there is a lot of money coming into Haliburton and a lot of strangers, merchants must be aware that some will try to pass fake bills.

Already, area police have responded to calls from businesses who have received

Bank of Montreal employee Nellie Ashworth shows her children, Robbie, 10, and Victoria, 7, how the ultraviolet detector works.

phoney $10, $20 and $50 bills.

The best way to combat counterfeiting, says OPP Const. Laura Ostler, is a well-informed public.

Ostler and Lynda Burley, police support association's chair, hosted the seminar.

While the advanced printing technologies today make it difficult to tell a genuine bill from a phoney one, differences can be observed by the naked eye or by using an ultraviolet light.

You can actually "feel" the difference, Burley says.

Genuine bills use raised ink on the numerals, portrait, coat of arms, broad bands and on the vignette of the Parliament Buildings.

When in doubt, it's a good idea to have some genuine bills on hand to compare the differences. And do look for the differences rather than the similarities.

A colour change patch located on the upper left corner of $20, $50, $100 and $1,000 bills changes from gold to green when tilted, and cannot be peeled off on a real note.

Genuine notes also contain small green dots that appear randomly on both sides of the bill and glow under ultraviolet light. The dots will come off if scratched, leaving a white mark underneath. While similar-looking dots may appear on phony bills, they are not removable and if you try to remove them, the paper will be damaged.

A final major key security feature to look for can be found in the portrait. Concentric circles within the eyes and fine lines in the hair and face indicate a genuine note.

If you don't have the time or the eyesight to detect counterfeit currency this way, another option is to invest in an ultraviolet light.

While only the green dots will glow on a genuine bill, the entire paper will fluoresce on fake currency.

The most popular Canadian denomination with counterfeiters is the $20 bill, although Ostler notes the $10s seem to be gaining in popularity.

Counterfeiters also tend to pay for small purchases with large denominations during the busiest time of day.

Should any currency cause suspicion, retain the denomination, note its serial number and call police immediately, Ostler says.

Thief scared off in robbery attempt

On April 23, Minden OPP investigated an incident involving the manager of Godfather's Pizza in Minden.

The manager advised that on April 23 at 12 a.m. she attended the night deposit box at the Toronto Dominion Bank. A male, who had been hiding somewhere in the alley, approached her. The male, described as 5'10", very thin, late teens, dressed in black, was wearing a black balaclava, which had openings at the mouth and eyes.

The male did not speak but extended his arm and gestured to the night deposit bag and purse, which the manager was carrying. The manager began to scream loudly, and kicked the male when he approached causing him to fall back, at which point he turned and ran away down the alley.

The manager ran to her car. She then looked back and saw a second male running down the alley with the male who had approached her. She advised that the second male was taller than the first.

Anyone with any information is asked to contact the Minden OPP at 705-286-2431 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-563-8477.

ONTARIO PROVINCIAL ELECTION

It's Different This Time!

WE'RE USING A NEW WAY TO PREPARE THE VOTERS LIST FOR THIS ELECTION.

It's called the Permanent Register of Electors for Ontario and it means that most Ontario residents won't have enumerators knocking at their door this time.

REVISING AGENTS MAY CALL DOOR-TO-DOOR

In some areas where there has recently been a significant change in population, it may be necessary to complete a limited door-to-door canvass to identify eligible voters. In these cases, revising agents from Elections Ontario, working in teams of two, will be calling on residences to confirm voter eligibility. If the revising agents come to your door, please make them welcome.

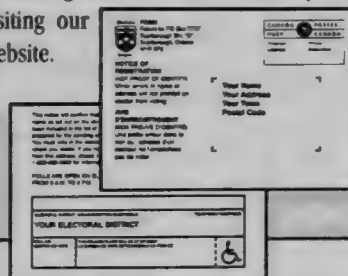

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION CARDS WILL BE MAILED

The names of most qualified voters in Ontario will already be included on the Voters List for this election as a result of information contained in the Permanent Register of Electors for Ontario. Those voters will receive a Notice of Registration card by mail. This card will confirm that they are on the Voters List, and it will provide their electoral district and the location of the poll where they will vote on election day.

IF YOU DO NOT RECEIVE A NOTICE OF REGISTRATION CARD

If you are qualified to vote and have NOT received your notification card within TWO WEEKS, contact your local returning office for information on how to protect your right to vote on election day. Returning office locations and telephone numbers may be obtained by calling Elections Ontario or by visiting our website.

THE NOTICE OF REGISTRATION WILL LOOK LIKE THIS.

NEW ELECTORAL DISTRICTS

The boundaries for electoral districts in Ontario provincial elections have changed. The number of electoral districts has been reduced from 130 to 103 and boundaries are now the same as those for federal elections.

You may confirm your electoral district by calling Elections Ontario or by visiting our website.

QUALIFICATIONS TO VOTE

To be eligible to vote, on polling day a person must be:

- 18 years of age,
- a Canadian citizen, and
- a resident of the electoral district.

Persons who ceased to live in Ontario within the two years before polling day may be entitled to vote under certain conditions. Call us for further information.

If you have friends or relatives who have difficulty reading, please make them aware of the information in this notice.

BOMB HOAX BRIEFLY CLOSES STORE:

Minden OPP officers responded to a bomb threat at Haliburton's Valu-Mart grocery store Friday afternoon. All shoppers and employees were forced to leave the store after the phone call came in about 2:30 p.m. The store remained closed for about 90 minutes as police searched for explosive devices. No bombs were found and the store re-opened. Police are continuing their investigation into the hoax. Above, OPP officers talk to store employees as store owner Mike Easton, far left, looks on.

OPP arrest break-in suspect after Haliburton foot chase

On April 30, Minden/Coboconk Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated a domestic complaint in the Village of Haliburton.

A female party called police saying that her ex-boyfriend had broken into her residence through the kitchen window, while she was in bed. She advised that he was still in the house and that she was unharmed.

Ontario Provincial Police attended the residence and located the male party in a neighbour's backyard. Officers attempted to arrest the individual, at which point a foot pursuit began.

The male party was arrested shortly after, near the Drag River. There were no injuries as a result of the incident.

A 29-year-old male from Haliburton was further charged with break and enter, assault police, and breach of recognition.

Police Week is May 10-14. Community Services Officer Laura Ostler will be in the following Community Police Offices promoting the "Mutual Protect Program" offered by Farm Mutual Insurance Company: Tuesday May 11, 1:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. Minden; Wednesday May 12, 1:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. Haliburton; & 5:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m. Wilberforce; and Thursday May 13 1:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. Dorset.

The "Mutual Protect" property program is a simple and effective means of protecting property from theft. It involves marking all easily portable valuables, using an individual's Licence plate number as a means of identification. The licence plate number provides a permanent link to the rightful property owner.

Constable Ostler will be available at the above mentioned locations with engravers and stickers. Anyone wishing to have items marked or learn how to use the engravers is welcome to drop in.

The engravers are to then be donated to the Community Police Office for public use.

Volunteers have heart

Their efforts fund research which hopes to find better ways to treat heart disease

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

Long associated as a problem which affects people as they get older, heart disease strikes a surprisingly large number of younger people, volunteers with the Haliburton branch of the Heart and Stroke Foundation were told Friday night.

Research funded by these volunteers' efforts is helping a doctor at Hospital for Sick Children discover better ways of treating children who have had strokes.

"There were 90 cases of children having strokes last year and 80% of them were in Ontario," said the Foundation's area manager, Linda Black, at the volunteer appreciation dinner at St. George's Anglican Church. "The only way this doctor can perfect her treatment is through the Heart and Stroke Foundation (which funds her research project.) With her out there helping us, she'll help make sure these kids have a long life."

About two-thirds of research into heart disease is funded by the Foundation. The other third comes from government and drug manufacturers.

In big ways and small, Highlands volunteers and donors are making sure that heart disease can be better treated and prevented.

For example, this area, which includes Peterborough, raised $685,000 in February's door to door canvas; the Highlands accounted for $12,200 of that. Given the county's country lanes and small population in the winter, "when you bring in $12,000, that's a lot of money," Black said.

Volunteer Heather Valentine, with the support of Sir Sam's Ski Area, helped raise $6,000 at the Ski for Heart event this past winter, "the best year yet."

The Jump Rope for Heart hosted by various schools as a way to raise funds and promote cardio-vascular exercise, brought in $17,000 from Receiving special recognition from the Heart and Stroke Foundation at Friday's appreciation dinner at St. George's church were, from left, Ed and Sheila Burke, Barbara Hodgson, Norma Nobles, George Bartley, Wendy Bateman and Maria and Lawrence VanLieshout. At right, area manager Linda Black spoke about research underway at Hospital for Sick Children.

Haliburton County alone. The area raised a total of $167,000.

Direct mail resulted in an additional $8,000 in donations. (If canvassers meet people who don't like the direct mail approach, then Black said to tell them their names can be removed from the mailing list.)

The annual lottery sold out of its tickets in 47 days and netted $8-million, much of the money going to hospital and university research projects. Black says that for many people, buying a lottery ticket is the only way they will donate to a cause.

Memorial donations are also an important fundraising, said

Black, thanking local volunteer Barbara Hodgson who has been writing out the receipts "for 100 years."

While all this money is appreciated and beneficial, Black said "we are still a long way from preventing heart disease or getting those great cures or drugs." The continued efforts of the volunteers are therefore much needed.

Friday's dinner was a way of thanking the volunteers for their help. Special mention was given to Wendy Bateman, who received her 10-year pin. She will shortly take over presidency of the local chapter from Barb Hodgson, who is stepping down after 33 years. George Bartley and Maria and Lawrence VanLieshout were praised for raising more than $1,500 in door to door canvassing. Norma Nobles and Ed and Sheila Burke were given two-year pins.

Thanks to generous donations from local residents and cottagers, Wilberforce has a brand new Polaris 500 — a fully automatic 4X4 that will assist police and fire departments battle bush fires and crime.

Over $3,000 in public donations, $1,000 from Haliburton's District Lions Club, and a reasonable deal from Wayne's Polaris World, helped Wilberforce's committee policing association purchase the vehicle.

"It's truly a whole community effort — we can't be thankful enough," said John Goverde, the policing association's president.

The Polaris will be used for bush and cottage patrols to check for break-ins, helping police to clamp down on crime by allowing access into remote areas.

Firefighters will use the 4X4 in their initial attack on bush fires, said Monmouth fire chief, Ted Nottage. Heavy hoses can be carried into the fire area on the vehicle's back rack, freeing up valuable manpower. It used to take five or six men to drag a hose through some forest parts that the fire truck simply couldn't get to.

While the fire and police departments and search and rescue will all have access to the vehicle, its home will be on a trailer at the fire department.

A two-way radio will be mounted to the vehicle's front and will connect to the fire department's present system.

A Joyful Noise

Messiah Choir welcomes the Minstrel
Ministers to this weekend's performances of gospel music

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

AT A SUNDAY morning church service, do you ever get the sense that your minister would really like to let loose during the hymn sing, to let those notes soar towards heaven?

Well, this weekend, a group of local ministers is going to be able to sing to their heart's content and it will be hard to tell who's enjoying it more - them, or the audiences of the two performances of gospel music.

On Saturday night at the Minden United Church and Sunday afternoon at the Haliburton United Church, the Minstrel Ministers will be the guests of the Messiah Choir during its annual spring choral concert.

Four years ago, the Minstrels made their debut at the Choir's first gospel concert, so it only seems fitting - fittingly entertaining - to welcome them back to the second performance dedicated to religious music.

"The Bible says make a joyful noise," says Paul Benson of West Guilford Baptist Church, and that's exactly what he and Harry Morgan of the Haliburton Pastoral Charge, Christopher Greaves of the Anglican Parish of Haliburton, Gord Walsh of Full Gospel Lighthouse, Brian Plouffe of Lakeside Baptist Church, John Byelis of Eagle Lake Community Church and Terry Wicks of Minden Bible Church love to do.

Think of them as a gospel barber shop group. It's their harmonizing and obvious love of singing that brings the music to life. As they say when describing their Up and Away Medley, "when we end, we're way up". (Benson's high notes have a lot to do with that.)

For this group of local ministers, finding harmony in their song is a vocal way of illustrating the harmony between their various churches. The local ministerial association brings them together in a formal fashion, but the friendships between them help ensure that all the churches get along.

Singing together, therefore, was a natural way to unite in faith and friendship.

"It's the love of the Lord - we feel God's presence when we sing," says Greaves.

Their four songs at the Messiah Choir concerts will be

Just a Little Talk With Jesus, Up and Away Medley, Find Us Faithful and I Will Call Upon the Lord. Not all of the ministers will be able to attend, however, because of previous commitments.

The Minstrel Ministers are directed by Melissa Stephens, whom they refer to as their "judicial task mistress." She also directs the Messiah Choir, which has chosen a selection of more traditional gospel music for their second gospel production.

Practice nights finds the 80 or so members singing Witness, "a really wild" Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, All My Trials, Joshua Fought the Battle of Jericho as they prepare for their annual spring concert. The men are also working on Dry Bones, which will be anything but dry this weekend.

Tickets are $12, available at Nancy's Flowers in Haliburton or Minden IDA.

Melissa Stephens, foreground, directs both the Messiah Choir and the Minstrel Ministers, whose members include Harry Morgan, Christopher Greaves and Paul Benson

Bird calls beckon couple out for a walk. Why not join them?

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

There are simply too many distractions along their favourite walking path - the abandoned rail corridor - for these avid birdwatchers.

"If you're out bird watching, you can be quite slow," they smile, binoculars draped around their necks, ears attuned to the calls coming from nearby trees.

The Kashagawigamog couple are just two of the people who have discovered the joy of walking - a joy that is being celebrated this Friday during Sneaker Day activities.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Minden, starting at the gazebo, and 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Haliburton, starting at the Head Lake docks, everyone is encouraged to get outside and get some exercise.

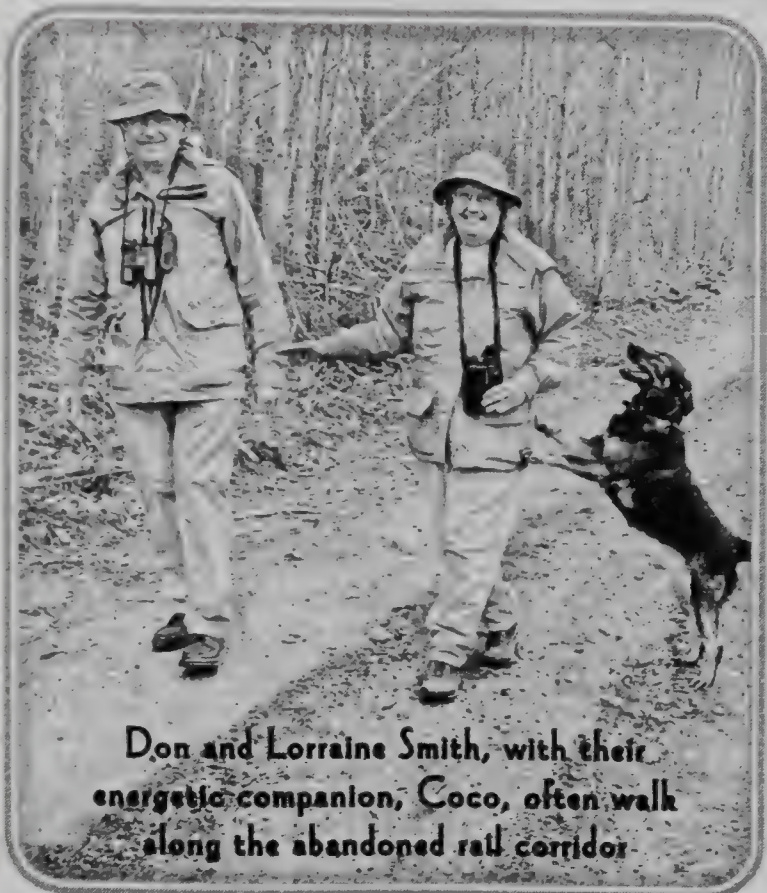

Sponsored by the Heart and Stroke Foundation, Sneaker Day promotes the importance of exercise as part of a healthy lifestyle. Whether you simply take a leisurely stroll, or are in training for a marathon, the main thing is to make exercise a naturally enjoyable part of your day.

Now, if you're like the Smiths and like to include a little nature appreciation in your day as well, they are offering the perfect way to do both.

On Saturday, May 22, at both 6:30 in the morning for the early birds and 9 for the late risers, they are leading an interpretative walk along the rail corridor. People are asked to gather where Gould's Crossing meets the corridor, just off County Road 1. The rain date is the Sunday morning.

"It's a great place for a wide diversity of wildlife and plants because (the route) goes through so many habitats," they say, adding that this is the perfect season for listening to bird calls.

PIT STOP:

British tourists on a five-day trip to Canada, prepare to board a Dash-7 airplane at Stanhope's airport last weekend. Having unwound at Camp Kandalore with some canoeing and axe throwing, they're now jetting off to Toronto.

Big Brothers' Bowl for Kids a striking success as fundraiser

Big Brothers and Sisters of Victoria-Haliburton held its annual Bowl for Kids Sake events throughout Victoria and Haliburton Counties during February and March. Last week they announced that they received a whopping $52,500 from the community in support of the programs and services Big Brothers and Sisters provides to children in our area.

"We are overwhelmed by the support from the community," said Cathie Hawery, BFKS Committee Chairperson. "To raise an additional $14,500 over last year's event is phenomenal."

The agency attributes this year's success to the generous donation for first prize of two airline tickets to anywhere in North America provided by Canadian Airlines Employees Charitable Foundation. The two tickets were won by Pat Wakeling of Lindsay. Mrs. Wakeling collected $1,651.10 in pledges from 355 contributors. Mrs. Wakeling is planning to use the tickets to visit her daughter and three grandchildren in Merritt, B.C. who she has not seen for three years.

Second prize of an A. J. Casson Ltd. Edition Print goes to Jack Thistle of Wilberforce who raised $1,625.00 in pledges from 332 contributors. Ralph Ingelfield who raised $1,361.00 in pledges is the winner of a weekend for two at Wigamog Inn Resort in Haliburton.

Extra funds from this year's event will help with the implementation of In-School Mentoring and Co-op In-School Mentoring programs throughout the two counties in September.

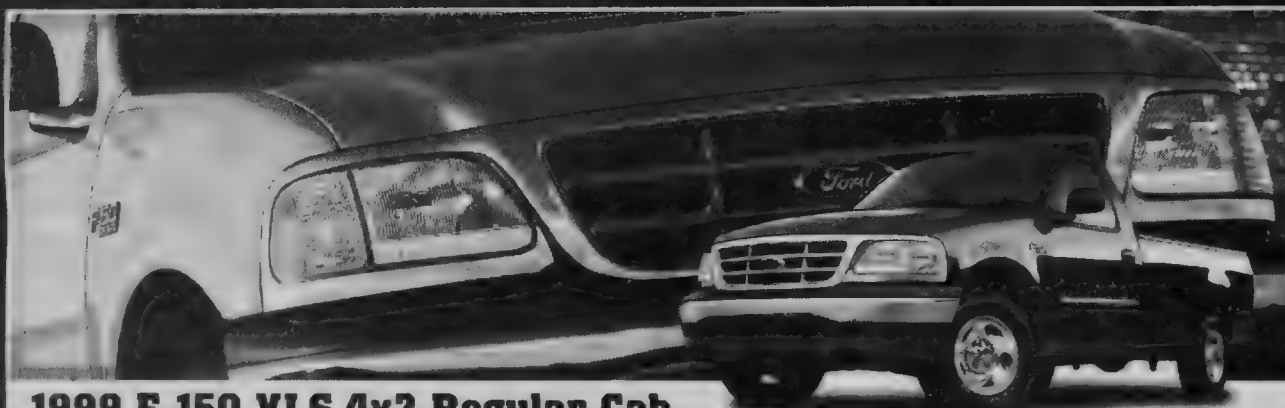

The key benefits to be derived from these programs include: the opportunity to provide support to children in need, to decrease behavioural problems in the classroom, happier more productive students, improved school performance and attendance, an extra support system for school staff and enhanced learning opportunities for co-op students. The long-term benefits include: increased motivation to complete high school, enhanced earning potential and (if applicable), the motivation to break the cycle of government assistance.

Although this program will be made available to the many children on the waiting list for Big Brothers and Big Sisters, the need is still great for volunteer Big Brothers, Big Sisters or Big Couples.

Anyone wishing information on the In-School Mentoring programs or any other program that Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Victoria-Haliburton provide, are encouraged to call the agency at 324-6800.

Trails and Tours Talk

by BARRIE MARTIN

The skis, snowshoes and snowmobiles are secure in storage and a new season is well under way. People are pulling out hiking boots, bicycles, canoes, and ATVs to explore Haliburton County landscapes. Welcome to the new monthly column of the Haliburton Highlands Trails and Tours Network. This column will celebrate the rich diversity of recreational resources and activities that we are so fortunate to have in this county. Stay tuned for information on trails and tours projects, organizations, events, resources and people. If you would like to contribute please contact Trails and Tours Coordinator, Jan Warfield at 705-286-2410, janwarfield@sympatico.ca or Barrie Martin at 705-754-3436, barrie.martin@sympatico.ca.

Winter Ways

Despite the short season and less than ideal snow conditions, this past winter was a good one for local trail organizations and users. The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association reported a significant increase in permit sales, from 2800 sold the previous winter to 3200 this year. A shift to late night trail grooming resulted in better trail conditions according to the letters and e-mails from satisfied trail riders.

More people, too, were kicking and gliding on our excellent cross-country ski trails. Ticket sales were up. John Felts of the Haliburton Nordic Trail Association noted that Glebe Park has become an important focal point for skiing with a very successful Jack Rabbit program, a well-organized major OFSAA event and as a facility for night skiing. Ski Friends of the Frost Centre president, Wally Ozog talked to numerous skiers who sought refuge on the quiet, intimate trails at the Frost Centre. Most years you will find a little more of the white stuff in the snow belt north of Hall's Lake.

Volunteers continue to work on winter trails during the spring, summer, and fall. If you are seeking fresh air, exercise and camaraderie contact one of the trail organizations.

Trillium Trails Festival

The Ontario Trails Council, has selected Haliburton County along with 20 other communities in Ontario to host a Trillium Trail Festival on Saturday, May 15th. The Trillium Trail Festival is a time for all community members to rally and support the spring "tune up" of local trails. This year's festival will take place at Moose Woods Trail Centre from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. Come out and support Moose Woods. Bring a rake or clippers, work gloves, water bottle (water available on site), great trail stories, and of course, your bug jacket! There will be a B.B.Q., prizes and great giveaways. Everyone welcome! Come out and show your support!

Side by Side

Motorized and non-motorized trail use a good fit? Yes, a win/win situation is possible as demonstrated this past winter by a cooperative effort between Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association, the Ski Friends of the Frost Centre and the Ministry of Natural Resources. Anglers seeking additional winter fishing opportunities were given snowmobile access to several lakes west of the Frost Centre via the Dan Lake Road, which had, for several years, been groomed as a ski trail. In return, a new ski trail to the east was created with assistance of the HHOA. Cross-country skiers enjoyed a new section of trail and anglers happily fished for trout thanks to the willingness, flexibility and support of the organizations collaborating on this project.

Network News

The Haliburton Highlands Trails and Tours Network has been up and running for almost a year now. The tremendous interest in trails and tours in this county clearly confirms HHTN's reason for being, that is, to promote, improve and develop trails and tours in the Haliburton Highlands.

Our first year has been spent researching; making presentations to a variety of groups; consulting with and assisting other trail organizations; fostering partnerships; promoting trails by producing a brochure, a web site (www.trailsandtours.on.ca) and display; and organizing events and public meetings. One thing is for certain - we find it easy to boast about the excellent trail systems and organizations that we have in this county.

As awareness and interest grows we are excited and sometimes overwhelmed with the scope and potential of this trails and tours initiative. This year is shaping up to be a busy one. We are undertaking several projects this year including the construction of trail kiosks at the 'gateways' into the county, upgrading of the rail line as a signature trail; formation of a Board of Directors, and fundraising. If you would like to become part of our organization please contact Jan Warfield, Trails and Tours Coordinator, at 705-286-2410, or janwarfield@sympatico.ca.

Scottish country dancers gather for spring ball community news

west guilford

Eleanor Cooper
754-7348

The Centre was bright with sound and colour on

Sat. May 1, when Scottish Country dancers from Orillia, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Peterborough, Kearney and Gravenhurst, joined our Haliburton group in the annual spring ball.

It was a real tribute to our instructor, Mike Turner, that the dance called "Alex MacLeod" was successfully stepped by the five sets of eight while the rest of us sat and watched in admiration. Of course many of the easier dances were enjoyed by all of us as well.

As usual the refreshments halfway through the evening were supplied by the host group and fully appreciated by the many guests.

A presentation to Jock Mavor for his almost 20 years of participation and office as secretary-treasurer was made by Dorothy Robertson. It was a scarf of dress Haliburton tartan woven by Ted Carson. Jock's response showed his appreciation for this unique and appropriate gift, a treasure for years to come.

Saturday afternoon, May 1, was special for the Chumbley-Sisson families because of the bridal shower for Laura Jane Chumbley at Erma Sisson's and given by the twins brother, Dan, of the bride elect. The affection for the guest of honour was evident in the greetings. The laughter and the gifts from the many in the neighbourhood who attended the happy event.

Sunday Supper Club has been re-activated by Nancy Brink. It involved much work and organization on Nancy's part, but the former participants missed it so much that Nancy agreed to take charge of it again.

Over 30 attended on May 1 at the Centre. Music was supplied by Ray and Chris Johnson. The event is the first Sunday of every month.

Minor Hockey supper on April 30 saw 150 young players out to talk hockey and hear Ron Stackhouse who first learned the game at the rink by the school, now the Centre, at West Guilford.

Three speakers addressed the Outdoors Association meeting at the Centre on Sat. a.m. May 1st. About seventy-five people listened to Chris Hodgson, our MPP, Pat Kennedy, and Doug Macnab as they spoke about current issues pertaining to the group.

The 50/50 draw was won by Murray Fearrey.

The next fund-raiser for the Centre takes the form of a barbecue dinner on May 15 with two settings: 4:30 and 6:15.

Contact Bill Marshall at 754-1457 or Cheryl Cooper 754-3210 for details.

DIPLOMA AWARD: Bette Ann Cannon (nee Jubb), left, of Haliburton, recently received an Ontario Agricultural College diploma award from OAC dean Rob McLaughlin. The award is presented to outstanding students completing the first semester in the OAC diploma program. The award is based on academic standing and the student's interest in agricultural production and community activities.

Gospel Sing an uplifting night for body and soul

The Gospel Sing evening at the Lloyd Watson hall on Saturday was a cheerful, uplifting time. The Joyful Noise band performed vocal and instrumental music. Another much appreciated feature was a medley of songs by Clara Burt with David Hughes at the piano. Clara organized the evening, with involvement from various individuals and churches. There was food, refreshment for the body, as well as the music and song, refreshment for the spirit.

Winnie Schofield, writer of this column for many years, has just returned from a spring holiday. She, with her daughter Connie and Wendy, enjoyed a ten-day cruise in the eastern Mediterranean Sea. Winnie found the visits ashore, especially in Greece, very exciting. To experience the sights there - The cradle of civilization and the birthplace of the Olympics, was mind boggling. Winnie thought the cruise ship delightful, the flights to get to and from the ship very long and the time with her daughter precious. Daughter Barbara and son-in-law Martin Miller were much appreciated, keeping the home-fires burning and the cat tended.

Line dancing has been reintroduced. Shirley Riley has started the dancing again in the Maple View recreation room. It will be held this week at 11 a.m. on Friday, when the group will decide if that is a good day and time. Everyone is welcome to get out the dancing shoes and join in.

We are pleased to learn that people have been found willing to take up the leadership of the Wilberforce Legion. This organization and its Ladies Auxiliary have an important place in the community. Those volunteering to serve are to be congratulated, encouraged and given much support.

Lots of ever popular yard sales are starting to appear - mostly for charitable and community groups. Watch for several on the Victoria Day holiday Saturday, May 22. The United Church will have theirs in front of the arena. St. Margaret's in conjunction with the Thrift Sales will be at the church, yard and rectory basement. There are posters around with more information. The Curling Club is collecting for their sale at the club on Sat. July 3. Contributions welcome.

Gardening workshop a good time to ask questions

by PHYLLIS BRISCOE
Dorset News

On May 14th, representatives from Sandhill Nursery will be at the Dorset Recreation Centre at 7 p.m. to discuss Container Gardening, Perennials in the Right Spot and other phases of gardening. There will be a question and answer period. Free admission.

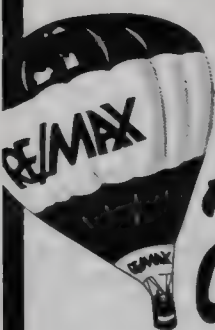

"Communities in Bloom" is once again a challenge to the community. Although there are no prizes for individual gardens it adds to the whole overall presentation. Even a new or small, well kept garden is worthy of showing. Call 766-2211.

We are happy to have Marcella McKay back in her home in Dorset. On Christmas Day Marcella was in a bad car accident. She had a number of serious injuries and was in Sunnybrook Hospital and the Huntsville Hospital for a long period of time. It has been a long, difficult struggle but she is finally at home, still convalescing and getting her strength back. We all know Marcella as a person of great determination, and one who finishes what she starts. We think this helped a lot in getting her where she is. She had a close call and we feel fortunate that she is back where she belongs again. Welcome home, Marcella.

We wish Peggy Walker a speedy and complete recovery from her recent medical problem. Peggy spent some time in hospital but is now at home recuperating.

Cottage owners can join group dedicated to lake environment

Cottagers and other waterfront property owners have common questions: "Is my lake healthy?" - "Is the water quality safe?" - "Is there ample habitat for wildlife?"

Recent cutbacks to government services have left the onus of monitoring lake health to private citizens. The key question is, "How do we do it?"

The Haliburton Highlands Stewardship Council held a meeting with interested waterfront owners on October 10, 1998, to see if there was interest to promote the formation of a Haliburton Highlands Waterfront Owners Association - the answer was a resounding yes!

The Waterfront Owners Association would serve as an executive committee linking the various individual lake associations in the Haliburton Highlands. Due to its unified voice of many lake groups, this committee would possess greater clout when requesting the assistance of private and/or government programs concerning water quality testing, capacity studies and other related projects.

Also, the commitment of many lakes to the Haliburton Highlands

Waterfront Owners Association would serve to reduce the cost of these programs by allowing lake monitoring to take place on a larger scale.

The second meeting of this group is set for Saturday, May 15, 1999, at the PineStone Resort and Conference Centre in Haliburton. This meeting is again open to all waterfront landowners. Coffee and registration begin at 8:45 a.m.

For additional information, questions or concerns please contact Steve Wilkins, Stewardship Coordinator at (613) 332-3940, ext. 260.

AUDITORS' REPORT

Auditors' Report

To the Members of the Board
Trillium Lakelands District School Board

We have audited the financial statements of Trillium Lakelands District School Board for the period ended August 31, 1998 from which these summary financial statements have been prepared. These financial statements are the responsibility of the School Board's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Board as at August 31, 1998 and the results of its operations for the period then ended in accordance with the accounting principles described in Note 1 to the financial statements.

Trillium Lakelands District School Board
Notes to the 1998 Financial Statements

1. Accounting Policies

The financial statements have been prepared by the Board using accounting principles that are prescribed by the Ministry of Education and Training and are considered appropriate for Ontario School Boards. These principles are in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, except as follows:

a. Accrual Accounting

Revenue and expenditure are accounted for on the accrual basis of accounting, with the following exceptions:

- No provision is made for interest on unmatured debenture debt from the date of payment to the year end.
- No provision is made to record the liability for retirement and/or sick leave benefits accruing over the working lives of employees.

b. Capital Assets

Capital assets are expensed unless they are to be financed by long-term debt. Principal and interest charges on net long-term liabilities are included as expenditures in the period due. Capital assets including Capital Leases, described as Capital outlay to be recovered in future years, are included on the balance sheet only to the extent of the balance of the related net long-term liabilities outstanding and of the related temporary financing at the year end.

c. Reserves and Reserve Funds

Reserves and Reserve Funds represent funds appropriated for general and specific purposes and are charged or credited to Revenue Fund Operations in the year appropriated or drawn down. The amounts in Reserves and Reserve Funds are approved by the Board and are within the limits defined in the Education Act.

d. Deficit(surplus) of Period End

The difference between the net expenditures of any year and the amounts received to finance these expenditures is carried forward to the subsequent year.

e. Financial Instruments

The Board's financial instruments consist of cash, accounts receivable, trade payables and accrued liabilities, deferred revenue and long-term debt. It is management's opinion that the Board is not exposed to significant interest, currency or credit risks arising from these financial instruments.

2. Retirement Gratuities Plans

The Board has a number of Retirement Gratuity Plans which cover certain employees up to a maximum of a half year's salary. The payment is based on one-half the number of unused sick days accumulated under the cumulative sick leave plan when they retire from the Board.

The amount paid in the current period in respect of Retirement Gratuity Plans was $2,546,000 (1997 - $1,985,000).

In accordance with the Ministry of Education and Training directive, $1,763,825 of these payments was recorded as prepaid expense representing the incremental cost of retirement gratuities of employees who retired at the end of the 1997-98 school year under the early retirement window.

The amount of the contingent liability in respect of employees who meet the eligibility requirements of the plans at August 31, 1998 is approximately $12,494,000. No provision has been made on account of the Retirement Gratuity Plans.

3. Net Long-Term Liability Repayments

The long-term liabilities outstanding at 31 August 1998 are $34,967,449. Principal of $12,406,231 and interest of $13,814,836 plus sinking fund payments amounting to $510,775 are payable over the next five years as follows:

	Sinking Fund Payments	Principal	Interest	Total
1999	102,155	1,832,222	3,229,862	5,164,239
2000	102,155	2,199,276	3,050,440	5,351,871
2001	102,155	4,608,769	2,871,388	7,582,312
2002	102,155	1,809,738	2,412,869	4,324,762
2003	102,155	1,956,226	2,250,277	4,308,658
Total	$510,775	$12,406,231	$13,814,836	$26,731,842

Under the terms of debentures dated 9 November 1990 and 8 May 1992, the Board is required to make quarterly installments of $11,911 and $13,628 into two Sinking Fund Accounts. These payments together with the interest earned on these investment accounts will be used to retire the principal amount of $2,308,000 in November 2010, and $1,855,000 in May 2012.

The Principal payments in 2001 includes $2,750,000 that will retire the debt outstanding on the debenture issue established under the former Victoria County Board of Education By-Law Number 91-1. However, this amount is refundable at the option of the borrower for a further period of not more than 10 years.

4. Debt Charges and Capital Loan Interest

The Revenue Fund expenditures for debt charges and capital loan interest includes principal and interest payments as follows:

	1998
Sinking Fund payments	$ 51,077
Principal payments on long-term liabilities	999,571
Interest payments on long-term liabilities	2,345,718
Interest payments on temporary financing of capital projects	18,995
Total	$3,415,361

5. Obligations Under Operating Leases

The Board has an obligation under the terms of three operating leases amounting to $1,662,555 as at 31 August 1998. The obligation was used to provide classroom computers under the Ministry of Education and Training sponsored IBM Initiative, for Grades 3 and 4. The obligation is to be repaid with the blended payments as follows:

Lease	Remaining Terms in Months	Monthly Payments	Total
1	35	$ 18,234	$ 638,190
2	48	24,762	1,188,576
3	12	8,208	98,496

6. Pension Plan Costs

All non-teaching employees of the School Board are members of the Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System which is a multi-employer final average pay contributory plan. Employer contributions made to the plan during the period by the Board amounted to $326,463. Those amounts have been included in employee benefits expense in the Schedule of Expenditure.

The financial statements of the Board do not include any employer's contributions to the Teachers' Pension Fund. The funding for such is provided directly by the Provincial Government.

7. Ontario School Board Insurance Exchange

The Board is a member of the Ontario School Board Insurance Exchange (OSBIE), a reciprocal insurance company licensed under the Insurance Act. OSBIE insures general public liability, property damage and certain other risks.

8. Prepaid Expenses

Included in the Prepaid Expense of $2,565,648 is an amount of $726,150 which represents the cost of land for future school sites. Once the approvals for new construction have been received, this amount will be incorporated into the total project costs. Also included is Retirement Gratuities of $1,763,825 as described in Note 2.

9. Contractual Obligations

At period end, there were commitments of approximately $4,162,000 to complete school construction projects in progress.

10. Change in Fiscal Year

The fiscal year of the Board is the year from September 1 to August 31. These financial statements are for the period January 1, 1998 to August 31, 1998.

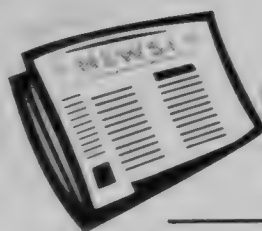

11. Transfer of Assets and Liabilities

In accordance with the Fewer School Boards Act, 1997; the Education Quality Improvement Act, 1997 and pursuant to Ontario Regulation 460/97, the Trillium Lakelands District School Board transferred money in the sum of $1,271,044 to French-Language District School Boards. An amount of $200,000 is still outstanding and is payable August 31, 1999.

12. Uncertainty Due to the Year 2000 Issue

The Year 2000 Issue arises because many computerized systems use two digits rather than four to identify a year. Date-sensitive systems may recognize the year 2000 as 1900 or some other date, resulting in errors when information using year 2000 dates is processed. In addition, similar problems may arise in some systems which use certain dates in 1999 to represent something other than a date. The effects of the Year 2000 Issue may be experienced before, on, or after January 1, 2000

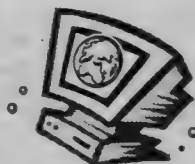

If the Year 2000 Issue is not addressed by the Board and its major customers, suppliers and other third party business associates, the impact on the Board's operations and financial reporting may range from minor errors to significant systems failure which could affect the Board's ability to conduct normal business operations. It is not possible to be certain that all aspects of the Year 2000 Issue affecting the Board, including those related to the efforts of customers, suppliers, or other third parties, will be fully resolved.

712 CARDS OF THANKS

I WISH TO THANK Dr. Lingertat and staff at the Minden Hospital and the ambulance attendants for their quick response. Thank you to Dr. Ferracuti and staff of the Haliburton Hospital for their excellent care and to Dr. Wierzbicki of Peterborough. Special thanks to my family - Fred, Bess, Lesley and Robert Cox; to Reverends Walford-Davis, Morgan, Greaves and to John Miller for all their prayers. I am fortunate to have the understanding of so many friends and support groups during this difficult time. Your prayers have meant a lot to me as I continue to live with this disease and try to live each day to its fullest. Helen Cox.

712 CARDS OF THANKS

MAY I SAY how sorry we feel for every relative, neighbour, friends and strangers who are sharing our shock and sorrow, but at the same time you have helped so much to keep us going. Thank you Mike, you were my rock when I needed one so badly. Thank you Dale, and my Parklane neighbours for the comfort. Thanks to my Camarvon Bowling buddies. Thanks to our relatives and neighbours (present and past) who were there for Lee, Terra, Craig and Jessica and who were there for Gayle, Tom, Amber, Dawn, Jeff and Cody and for all the Mann family and myself. Special thanks to Jennifer Minto and Ann Raback for helping us see another side of our shy, gentle giant, Aaron, a real fun side. Thanks to God for sparing Lee. Barney Norwood.

ON BEHALF OF the Stuart Baker Elementary School Council, we would like to thank all the local businesses and parents who donated so generously to the silent auction: Butcher Block & Deli, Chip's Rental, Cordell Interiors, Haliburton Aerobic Co-op, Haliburton Hairdressing, Health Tech Clinic, Home Hardware, IGA, LJ's Fashions, McKee's, Nancy's Flowers, PineStone Resort, Roberts-Austin Fuels, Robert's Marina, Spectra Environmental Inc., Sylvia Holland, Treasures Gift Store, valu-mart, Village Court Pharmacy, V & S Dept. Store, Marie Bird, Anne Creelman, Chris Duchene, Kelly Hutchings, Judy MacDuff, George and Elaine Schmidt, Heather Smith, Shelley Van Nood, Grahame and Debbie Wales. We had so many wonderful items. We would also like to thank everyone who placed a bid. Because of your generosity and support, we were able to raise almost $900. All money raised will go towards the purchase of playground equipment for the new school. We are so fortunate to live in such a giving community.

HOW DO YOU SAY Thank you to a whole community when the unthinkable has happened to you and your family. You simply say "Thank You." Thank you to everyone for their words of comfort, the heartfelt hugs and the loving feeling that has enveloped us through this difficult time. Thank you my dearest friends at McKeck's Place for all you have done for me, wait for your help on that fateful day, Wayne Ellis at the PineStone for your understanding with Amber. Peter and Martha for their warm and compassionate articles regarding this delicate subject. My sister Lee is a miracle and is doing so well thanks to all of your prayers. Thank you Joyce for your prayer group. God heard you. Love Gayle Rowan.

SUNDAY, APRIL 25 (Good Shepherd Sunday) saw the passing into His presence of a special lady who was very dear to us: Dorothy (Helen) Pritchard. We wish to thank those who cared for her and about her, and those who provided transportation and other services when needed. A special thank you for the kindness and inspiration of the Reverend Harold Morgan, and the Haliburton United Church; for the wonderful and professional care of the Monk family, and for the luncheon committee as well as all the residents of Parklane Apartments who were her neighbours and friends. To all, we thank you for your prayers, cards, flowers and all expressions of sympathy. From the family of Dorothy (Helen) Pritchard.

The Merry Micks from Maynooth recently performed at the Haliburton Legion to raise more than $1,000 for St. Anthony's church. One of the younger Fitzgerald family members was a favourite with the audience. She played fiddle with her brother, top, then danced with her mother, centre, and then even fiddled and danced.
